Top symposium scholars focus on research of the galaxy and war crimes in Iraq

Cheers and applause exploded through the standing-room-only crowd in the Manchester College auditorium on the afternoon of April 4th ... not for a victorious 3-pointer, but for two research scholars who had just netted The Jo Young Switzer Award for Excellence.

A future scientist and a future peacemaker each received the $150 top prize in the largest field of competition in the history of the 10-year-old Student Research Symposium ... more >

Class of '11

"I never expected to leave the country to study, at least in my first year! I recently completed a January session in Costa Rica studying Spanish for my minor. White water rafting and zip-lining through the rainforest were a few added bonuses. Staying with host families and being surrounded by the language and culture was an amazing and wonderful learning experience."

campus address before his assassination 40 years ago. But the memories of that emotion-charged moment at Manchester College linger steadfastly, as does the message delivered by Martin Luther King Jr.

On Feb. 1 – 40 years after King delivered his address “The Future of Integration” – the Manchester community filled Cordier to recall the event with reflections, preserved photography, and song ... more & Ken Brown's speech >

Women make third-straight trip to NCAA tourney

The 19-8 women Spartans earned an automatic bid in the NCAA tournament following their 52-50 win over Anderson University to win the Heartland Collegiate Athletic Conference championship.

It was the third-straight time the Manchester team earned a berth in the NCAA tournament. ... more >
